Dear Tanishq

Welcome back to Nest

You have previously been a member of Nest. Nest continues to be a high quality Defaqto 5 Star rated pension scheme that aims to create better retirement outcomes for its members.

Your employer IR&C Ltd enrolled you into Nest with effect from 26 September 2022 and your active membership with us starts three working days later.

Your Nest ID is MEM020285984.

This is the same Nest ID we gave you last time you were enrolled into Nest. Please keep a record of your Nest ID. You'll need it every time you contact us.

What saving with Nest means for you

Small steps towards a better future

You can build your retirement pot without having to put away too much at once.

Extra money

Your employer will pay into your pension pot too. You may also be eligible for tax relief.

A little can go a long way

It's never too early or too late to start saving for your future.

We see that you've already logged into your Nest account.

Please use the username and password you created to log in at the nestpensions.org.uk website. If you can't remember these details just click on Forgot username or Forgot password and follow the onscreen instructions.

Your Nest mailbox is our way of sending you important information about your pension pot. We'll usually use the email address we hold for you to let you know when there's new information in your Nest mailbox.

The email address details we hold for you are:

Preferred email address: vermatanishq573@gmail.com

Alternative email address: Vermatanishq573@gmail.com

If the email address you'd like us to use isn't shown above as your 'preferred email address', please update it now by logging into your account on the nestpensions.org.uk website. Then click on Edit your profile. You'll have the same Nest account if you change jobs, so we recommend you always provide a personal email address. Without a valid email address we won't be able to notify you by email about important information in your Nest mailbox. You have important information in there already.

Please also make sure we have a valid alternative email address for you so we can still contact you if your preferred email address is unavailable.

You can opt out of saving for your retirement with Nest if you want to. But remember:

- > you'll miss out on any employer contributions you might be entitled to
- you'll miss out on any tax relief you're eligible for from the government
- you'll also miss out on the opportunity to have your money grow with Nest.

If you opt out, any money you've contributed with this employer will be refunded, but you should think carefully before making this decision. If you still want to opt out you must do this between 29 September 2022 and 28 October 2022. You can't opt out of Nest outside of this period but you can take a break from contributing at any time.

To opt out of saving with Nest, you'll need to have the following information:

- Nest ID
- date of birth
- National Insurance number or alternative identifier depending on which your employer used to enrol you. If you don't know what this is, ask your employer.
- To opt out go to www.nestpensions.org.uk/member-hub. We'll ask you for the information above so we can identify you. Opting out online takes about two minutes and we can quickly tell your employer to stop making contributions for you.
- You can also opt out by phone on 0300 020 0090 using our automated telephone service. You simply need to follow the instructions to opt out. Please note, our contact centre operators can't process your opt-out request for you. Calls cost no more than a national rate call to 01 or 02 numbers. Charges from mobile phones vary.
- You can opt out by post, but first you'll need to call us on the above number to let us know. We'll then post you a personalised opt-out form to fill in and give to your employer. Your employer will then tell us you've decided to opt out.

Opting out this way takes longer so there's a chance your employer could take more contributions from your wages before your opt-out is complete. Remember the one month opt-out period means that if you choose to opt out by post, you'll need to do it in good time.

You don't have to opt out to stop paying money into Nest. You can decide to take a break at any time. Taking a break means you'll keep your retirement pot and you can start paying in again whenever you're ready. For more information on opting out and stopping contributions, please read your 'Welcome to Nest' booklet at www.nestpensions.org.uk/welcome-jobholder_0422.

If you've opted out of pension saving with Nest before and think your employer has accidentally re-enrolled you, this might have happened because:

- Your employer is legally required to assess its workforce every three years and re-enrol all eligible workers. You might be re-enrolled at that point, unless you've opted out within the last 12 months.
- > You have started work with a new employer who is required to enrol you into their pension scheme when you join.
- You are working for multiple employers, and one or all of them has put you into pension saving.

Where to go for more information

You'll find your 'Welcome to Nest' booklet on our website at www.nestpensions.org.uk/welcome-jobholder_0422. It's important that you read this carefully because this is the booklet that applies to your enrolment into Nest. We suggest you also print it for your records.

Your 'Welcome to Nest' booklet includes important information on:

- who can be a member of Nest and how they can join
- how Nest looks after your money
- what happens if you leave your employer
- making contributions to your Nest account, including employer contributions options for taking your money out of Nest, including transferring your pot
- our annual reports, how we deal with complaints and other bodies that can help you if you have a complaint, and more information about Nest.

We may update this booklet over time so you'll always find the latest version at www.nestpensions.org.uk/your-welcome-pack.

We provide online support and answers to frequently asked questions at https://www.nestpensions.org.uk/schemeweb/NestWeb/public/members/contents/faqs.html.

Thanks for saving with Nest.

Kind regards

Your privacy rights when you've been enrolled into NEST

The purpose of this document is to inform you about the type of information we hold about you, how we use it and to let you know your rights. The National Employment Savings Trust (NEST) Corporation exercises control over the processing of the data we hold about you and carries the data protection responsibility for it. In legal terms this is referred to as being the 'controller'.

About your personal information and where we obtain it*

When your employer enrolled you into NEST they provided us with information about you, as outlined in your Welcome to NEST letter. You, or your delegate, will also provide us with personal information about you, from time to time, in order to administer your account. We may also receive information about you from third parties we work with. These could include our service providers, payroll providers chosen by your employer, third parties in relation to an event affecting you as a member (such as information provided by your doctor in case of ill health) or third party agencies checking your identity or the validity of your bank account. We may also receive information from regulatory authorities or government departments, such as HM Revenue & Customs who provide us with tax relief rates where applicable.

How we'll use your personal information*

As a trustee and a public corporation, we'll use this information to administer your NEST account, in accordance with our legal obligations and also process your data in order to run the Scheme in line with our powers. We can use this to:

- Administer your NEST account
- provide services and information you request from us in relation to your account
- improve our service offering, including through surveys and research activities
- see if and when you open the secure messages, emails or links we send you
- prevent and detect crimes such as fraudulent activities

When we use sensitive personal information such as health records, we may ask for your consent. However, from time to time, there may be cases where due to legal reasons or public interest, NEST can use this personal information without your consent.

NEST may also use your personal information in order to establish, exercise and defend its legal rights.

We may use your personal details to provide you with other information you've consented to receive. You can withdraw your consent at any time. We explain how* at the time you give consent.

If you use our website, we may also use your personal information to monitor the traffic and performance of our website in accordance with our cookies policy. If you'd like to change your cookie settings, go to our cookies policy page at www.nestpensions.org.uk/cookiespolicy.
